MANAGER'S MINUTE

Dear Antioch Residents,

One of my favorite things about summertime is the way cities comes alive. Families outdoors, neighbors connecting, and new traditions beginning to take root.

This past month, I had the pleasure of attending our very first Farmer's Market downtown, and it was truly heartwarming. I picked up some fresh produce (which I've already cooked into a few meals!) and saw so many families enjoying the sunshine and supporting local vendors. I heard we had more than 3,000 people attend that opening day, a turnout that speaks volumes about the energy in our community and the potential impact events like this can have on our local economy. It's an exciting sign of the kind of vibrancy we're working to build together!

I also recently joined the Downtown Business Association for a thoughtful and productive meeting. Hearing directly from our business community about their goals, their challenges, and their hopes was not only informative, but reaffirming. Our downtown has so much promise, and it's through these ongoing conversations and partnerships that we'll shape a business environment that's both resilient and responsive to our community's needs.

As we turn the page into a new fiscal year, I'm pleased to share that the City has completed its 2025–26 budget. It reflects our continued commitment to investing in the services, infrastructure, and opportunities that matter most to you. Like all budgets, the process was filled with thoughtful dialogue and tough decisions, but at its core, it's about building a stronger, safer, and more inclusive Antioch for everyone who calls it home.

Thank you for continuing to show up for your city with ideas, with feedback, and with the kind of community spirit that makes Antioch such a special place.

With appreciation,

Bessie M. Scott

SPRINGBOARD INTERNSHIP 2025

We're excited to share that the Springboard Internship Program officially kicked off this June, now in its fifth year!

This public service internship places Antioch youth ages 16–18 — yessss -juniors and seniors in high school --who either live in or attend school in Antioch — in departments across the City of Antioch.

This year, we received nearly 200 applications for just 34 available placements — an incredible response that highlights the growing interest in public service among our young people.

We are deeply grateful for the continued support of departments citywide who not only provide site placement, and mentor/guide these interns throughout their journey –but also for those who serve in the often invisible but essential ways behind the scenes. Special thanks to HR for providing onboarding support, Finance for ensuring timely processing, and IS for connecting our interns with City systems. Your teamwork truly makes this all happen.

When you see our interns around City facilities in their green shirts, please join me in welcoming them. For many of them, this is a dream opportunity — and you're a key part of making it meaningful.

NEIGHBORHOOD CLEANUPS

Over the last several years, the City of Antioch's Code Enforcement Division has held annual "neighborhood cleanup" events at various city facilities in Antioch. These events are a partnership between the City of Antioch and Republic Services to assist residents with free, lawful disposal of unwanted household items. It is anticipated that these events reduce the occurrences of illegal dumping, since unwanted items are disposed of properly, and the number of reports to the Code Enforcement Division for junk/rubbish accumulation on private property is reduced.

Keep an eye on your mailbox for your invitation flyer from Republic Services to your Neighborhood-specific event ! Events are held during the months of March through October, and you will need to bring your invitation flyer with you to gain access to the event and dispose of your unwanted household items at no charge.

Thank you for keeping Antioch beautiful!
