El Campanil Theater - International Film Showcase Presents: A Brilliant Young Mind (United Kingdom). A charming coming of age drama, Nathan (Asa Butterfield) is a socially awkward but highly intelligent teenager who suffers from a form of autism. He finds it hard to connect with people (including his own mother played by Sally Hawkins) or show much emotion and when his father dies in a car crash he retreats even further into his shell. His only respite is his love of numbers and mathematics in which he is somewhat of a child prodigy. After being placed under the wing of grumpy math tutor Mr Humphreys (Rafe Spall), Nathan is set on a course to make the British team for the International Math Olympiad, making him part of a team and sending him to China as he slowly but surely comes out of his shell, making friends and forming new relationships.

CITY MANAGER'S NOTES

Yesterday, Economic Development Program Manager, Lizeht Zepeda, and I presented an oral report to the County Sub-Committee on Northern Waterfront Economic Development Initiative. Supervisors Glover and Piepho are on the committee. We provided an update on the status of economic development in Antioch and our collaborative efforts with County staff the other East County cities. Basically, the County staff is doing a great job of working with the city staffs in East County and the communication amongst the cities and the County is much improved due to this initiative.

Last evening, Mayor Harper, Mayor Pro Tem Ogorchock and I attended the monthly Mayors Conference, which was held in San Ramon. Mayor Harper was elected to Chair of the 2016 Mayors Conference. The keynote speaker from Haas Business School at U.C. Berkeley spoke on the art of negotiations.

2015 was a year of notable success for the City of Antioch, although it was more about recovery from the "great recession" and preparation for a healthier and more prosperous future. We saw much success in crime reduction as we hired more police officers, joined the East Bay Regional Communication System (EBRCS), and promoted experienced officers from within. Of course, the ability to do that was financed by Measure C funding, which is all being spent on Police and Code Enforcement, and Measure O funding, which is covering what had become a structural deficit. In addition our property tax and sales tax revenues have grown enough to keep our lean staff afloat.

2016 promises to be even better. The Land Use Element of the General Plan and the Downtown Specific Plan, both of which are in process, will help to set the table for positive growth for the City. State Route 4 construction will finally be complete and the BART station will move forward for its spring 2018 completion. The Department of Finance approval of our Long Range Property Management Plan last week will help make our Downtown "Rivertown" Revitalization a reality. In short, we are looking forward to a year of accomplishments in 2016.
