Overview

Category: Patrol Deployment

Location: Sweeny Road

Address: 326 Sweeny Road , Antioch, CA, United States, 94509

Report Reviewed: No

Requesting Agency: Antioch Pd

Patrol Types: 1 (Non-Search: 1)

Deployment Reason: CVC10851 with on-star tracking the vehicle

Non-Search

Total People Found: 1

Total Arrests: 1

People Unintentionally Bitten: 0

Arrests With Bites: 0

Comments

I was dispatched to attempt to locate a possible occupied stolen vehicle in the area of Sweeny Road. Upon locating the vehicle as a solo Officer, I located the suspect exiting the stolen vehicle as I approached. I stopped my K9 Patrol vehicle and conducted a high risk stop of the suspect. K9 Perro, from my patrol vehicle, began barking repeatedly as I gave the suspect commands to surrender and that if he fled or fought with me that the K9 would be utilized. These commands appeared to sway the suspect into surrendering without incident.

Dog-Assisted Arrests: 1

Alerts / Indications: 0

Environments: 4 (Rooms: 4)

Comments

K9 Perro was requested to conduct a sniff of the residence for firearms and ammunition. Perro was utilized on the interior of the home. Perro showed strong interest in an upstairs bedroom closet, but made no alert. Perro did not alert to any other area in the house. During a hand search, the closet where Perro showed interest was searched. This closet was filled with bags and clothes. On the bottom of the pile was a tall brown cardboard box filled with clothes, inside the box at the very bottom was a red solo cup containing 4 live rounds of ammunition.

Comments

Perro searched on a 15 long leash. Perro was downwind of the first unloaded firearm under the plywood, he quickly picked up the sent and began sniffing the bottom of the box area before alerting by barking and staying in place while looking back at me. Perro was rewarded with a toy and then again sent to detect odor. Perro picked up the sent of the live .223 rounds which were approximately 10 feet from the unloaded pistol. Perro stuck his nose into the pallet where the live rounds were and attempted to grab them with his mouth. Perro alerted to this item by barking and looking back at me. Perro was rewarded and then sent again to detect odor in the open area. The next item Perro came across was the buried unloaded pistol. Perro took some time to bracket this odor and I stayed in place approximately 5 feet from the pistol and allowed Perro to use all 15 feet of his line. Perro was then able to stick his nose to the ground and moved the brush around where he located on the firearm. Perro barked and looked back at me, however he attempted to come back towards me in anticipation of his toy. I corrected him and made him stay in place before rewarding him with the toy. He was then sent again to detect odor near the conex boxes where the small box of spent shell casings was hidden in the handle area approximately 4 feet high. Perro picked up the odor and was sniffing hard on the edges of the box doors. Perro alerted to one side of the box doors nearby the shell casings but was not rewarded and was given another command to sniff. Perro then was able to bracket the odor and jumped up on the box sticking his nose directly into the opening where the shell casings were. Perro alerted by barking and looking back at me before being rewarded with the toy.

OBEDIENCE

Obedience Types: Sit: Off leash, Stay: Off leash, Down: Off leash, Heel: Off leash, Long stay: Off leash, Call off into a down.

Comments

Began training from my parked k-9 patrol unit. Utilized door pop and ensured Perro remained in vehicle. Close door and repeated this with me standing within view of him when the door opened. Perro remained in the car until he was given the command to exit. Conducted off leash obedience with no issues before moving into working call offs utilizing a tug toy. I would throw the tug out in front of Perro and ensured he did not release from a heal to retrieve the toy until given the command. Perro then was called off half way to the toy with a minor e-collar overlay before being brought back to a heal and then allowed to retrieve the toy. Perro showed no issues with these basic obedience commands or call offs. This was conducted on a grass field with no other people or animals around.

Search Items: Decoy

Comments

Search area was an asphalt street with adjacent buildings. Perro showed strong drive during this search with his head down bracketing odor. Perro brought me to the area of the hiding decoy where the scenario was set up for handler decision making. Decoy was holding a fake dog (acting as a real dog) making the handler quickly determine if this scenario is applicable for a K9. Decision was made that due to possible dog on dog aggression a K9 would not be applicable for this apprehension of the decoy.

Comments

From the start of this track, Perro showed strong drive pulling hard on his harness. Half way to the decoy location (unknown at start), Perro showed a change of behavior and had his head down while bracketing odor in wind blowing towards us. Perro successfully located the hiding decoy in a thick tree/brush area biting onto a bite sleeve. Perro was removed from the bite with a verbal command and e-collar overlay. On the way back to the start location, Perro successfully located the two hidden articles by alerting to each in a "bark and guard" on each item. I worked Perro going into a down position at the detection location where he was rewarded with a toy.

Obedience Exercise

B Marcotte and K9 Perro, Antioch Police Department, CA

Comments

This was a large group obedience exercise consisting of over 10 swat operators involved. Obedience began with the operations standing up in full gear and weapons, Perro was walked in and out around the operators ensuring there were no issues with him putting his attention to them. Continued this multiple times without issue, Perro kept his attention focused on me while moving around the operators.

Operators then laid on the ground with a short distance between them. Perro, on leash, was brought walked over each operator focusing on keeping his attention on me and not on the operators on the ground. Perro was given minor corrections to keep him on the path stepping over the operators.

With the operators still on the ground, Perro was then put into a down position on top of the operators as they laid on the ground. Perro appeared undeterred by laying on top of the legs of operators and I was able to keep his attention focused on me. This exercise was completed on and off leash with Perro beside me.

We then moved to leaving Perro into an off position while on top of operators. I would then move forward skipping over an operator and recall Perro to me and back into a down on top of another operator. Perro did an excellent job at keeping a clear head and his attention focused on my commands while having numerous factors distracting him (people walking around, numerous other k9s in close proximity, and talking/yelling from other handlers).

APPREHENSION

Dog In Guard Position: No

Recall / Call Off: No

Decoy Name: Erik

Equipment Used: Bite Suit

Bite Release: Verbal & Physical: Dog was released using a combination of verbal commands and physical removal

Comments

With a small team of operators, Perro was brought up to the rear of the stack at the door frame and sent into the room from the outside. We worked this exercise starting with Perro closer to the door and moving him further back in the stack of operators. I kept Perro on the inside of the wall and once his attention was focused on the door sent him inside to search. Perro quickly located and apprehended the decoy on a long line who was pulled out of the room outside to us. Perro remained on the bite while I pulled on his leash back towards me. Once outside, I kept Perro between my legs and ensured a clear path to remove him due to being in close quarters with other operators. Perro was removed from the bite verbally where I held him and removed him straight back. This was conducted three times, on the third bite, I attempted a verbal only command however Perro did not immediately release. I used a bite bar along with a verbal command and Perro was removed from the bite without issue.

Comments

During the discussion, I considered the factors and challenges involved in utilizing a K9 in a tactical team. Considerations included the environment, known information regarding the suspects, prior training with the tactical team for movements and apprehensions, and experience of the K9.

Based on these conversations, additional K9 training will be needed working directly with our tactical team to ensure the operators understand the function and capabilities of the K9 and to build confidence around the tactical team.

Venue: 9600 Malech Rd, San Jose

Address: 9600 Malech Rd, San Jose, CA, United States

Goal: Conduct basic obedience in the muzzle while on the shooting range with operators conducting live fire nearby.

Training Outcome For Perro

Exercise Performed: Yes

Report Reviewed: No

OBEDIENCE

Obedience Types: Sit: On leash, Down: On leash, Heel: On leash

Comments

Obedience was conducted on the shooting range within 50 feet of operators conducting live fire. I used cotton balls in Perro's ears to help muffle some of the shooting noise. While conducting basic group obedience, it was apparent to me that the live fire increased Perro's excitement. Due to this, he was given immediate corrections which brought him back into obedience. I noted for future references that investing in better ear protection for Perro for range environments/tactical operations would help with these issues.

Exercise Monitor: Brock Marcotte

Goal: Operators will be on the range conducting live fire drills. Utilize your K9 behind the operators at three shooting locations putting the K9 into a down position while rounds are being fired next to them. At the last shooting position, closest to the target, K9 handler will put the K9 into a down and fire 3 live rounds.

Training Outcome For Perro

Exercise Performed: Yes

Report Reviewed: No

OBEDIENCE

Obedience Types: Down: On leash

Comments

During this exercise, I switched to a tab leash to keep Perro as close to me as possible on the live fire range. I found that it was necessary to keep him from jumping up or moving while live rounds were being fired in close proximity to him. Perro listened to the down commands without issue and remained in a down while the rounds were being fired. Lesson learned from this was that as I was moving forward to go into a kneeling shooting position, to put Perro in a down and then step forward in front of his position to ensure the safety of the K9 so he did not jump up into harms way.

This exercise was completed multiple times with similar results. Investment in better hearing protection for K9 Perro will aid in keeping him calmer during the shooting as the cotton balls provided little protection for his ears.

During this exercise, it was raining heavily outside. Perro performed this on a long leash starting from the back of a parking lot working towards the parking garage. Perro was undeterred by the weather and stayed in a strong search drive during this exercise. Perro followed the right side of the parking lot near large bushes and had a sudden change of behavior with him pulling hard towards the back area of a bush hiding the decoy. Perro apprehended the decoy who was ordered out of a position of cover to me. Perro remained on the bite until decoy compliance and was removed with a verbal command and bite bar.

Perro was staged at the rear of the operator stack by the armored vehicle. Prior to bang deployment, I brought Perro to the front of the stack and into a down position. Once in a down, a bang was deployed approximately 15 feet in front of Perro. Perro was momentarily distracted by the bang before going back into drive and refocusing his attention onto the decoy. Perro was then sent into the vehicle and apprehended the decoy without issue and was released from the bite via verbal command and e collar overlay. Lesson learned for this exercise was to focus on bang placement if the K9 is deployed and to be prepared for the momentary startling of the dog from the bang. If used in live tactics, I would have the bang deployed on the far opposite side of the vehicle away from the K9 and send the K9 simultaneously.
